Day 1 Arrival in Jakarta

Today we arrive in Jakarta (on the island of Java), the capital and largest city of Indonesia.

With its busy streets, the capital is a lively adventure for any traveller. This city, one of the world's biggest, is a contrast of modern western architecture and traditional Indonesian culture. Its rapid growth into a metropolitan city, however, is a reflection of the economic, political, social and industrial development of the nation. Established in the fourth century, the city became an important trading port for the Kingdom of Sunda. It was the de facto capital of the Dutch East Indies and continued being the capital city of Indonesia, after its independence in 1945.

Day 2 Jakarta City Touring

Today we explore the heart of Jakarta, starting with a visit to the National Museum, which boasts an impressive collection of artefacts and relics that tell the story of Indonesia's rich history. As we wander through the galleries, we'll come face-to-face with an extensive array of bronzes and ceramics dating back to the Han, Tang, and Ming dynasties - a true treasure trove for history buffs. The museum also showcases a fascinating selection of cultural instruments, household utensils, and arts and crafts, giving us a glimpse into the daily lives of Indonesia's diverse ethnic groups.

After a quick photo opportunity at the National Monument, we'll drive by some of Jakarta's iconic landmarks, including the Merdeka Palace, Istiqlal Mosque, and Church. These brief glimpses will give us a sense of the city's vibrant cultural and spiritual heritage.

After a break for lunch at a local restaurant, we'll make our way to Fatahillah Square, a charming cobblestoned area that's steeped in history. As we stroll along the picturesque Kali Besar Barat, we'll be surrounded by beautiful Dutch architecture, including the old Train Station and the Bank Indonesia Museum.

Our final destination for the day is the 500-year-old Sunda Kelapa Harbour, a bustling port that's played a vital role in the region's history. This ancient harbour was once the lifeblood of the 15th-century kingdom of Pajajaran and a key hub for the spice trade. Today, it's still an important centre for maritime trade, with brightly painted phinisi boats lining its shores, carrying goods from across Indonesia. As we explore the harbour, we'll get a glimpse into the lives of the people who call this vibrant city home.

Day 3 Jakarta - Fly to Pangkalan Bun - Tanjung Puting National Park

This morning, we fly from Jakarta to Pangkalan Bun in Kalimantan, Borneo. From there, we drive to the Kumai River harbour, where we board our traditional klotok boat. As we head to our lodge, we'll relax on the upper deck, taking in the sights of the rainforest gliding by. The klotok's distinctive "klok tok tok tok" sound will accompany us as we depart the bustling river port, passing by shipyards where Makassar schooners are handcrafted from tropical hardwoods.

As we make our way upriver, we'll observe monkeys along the riverside and witness vibrant life along the riverfront - women washing clothes, men fishing, and children waving as we pass. Our destination is Tanjung Puting National Park, a protected area with vast tracts of wetlands, lowland forests, and swamp forests. The park is home to orangutans, proboscis monkeys, and over 400 species of trees.

We'll have a flexible itinerary to allow for maximum wildlife viewing opportunities, including the orangutan nursery at Tanjung Haraphan and Camp Leakey. We'll have the chance to see orangutans feeding at close range, as well as other wildlife like proboscis monkeys, hornbills, and macaques. We'll also take a walk into the Kalimantan rainforest, one of the earth's most biologically diverse areas.

Day 4 Orangutan Exploration & Camp Leakey

Situated on the edge of the Tanjung Puting National Park, our forest lodge on the Sekonyer River provides a great base for seeing up to nine primate species. This is one of the only places in the world where orangutans can be seen in the wild! Here we hope to be able to observe Orangutans, Proboscis Monkeys, Gibbons, Tarsiers and other primate species in their natural habitat.

The excitement continues today as we further our exploration of the area. After breakfast we will board our klotoks and travel upriver for about 2 hours and then up a side creek to Camp Leakey where the older orangutans are reintroduced into the rainforest. At Camp Leakey we will have the opportunity to walk into the rainforest with our guides and forestry rangers to appreciate the flora as well as perhaps sight wild orangutans, gibbons, macaques, and birds.

Camp Leakey was set up in 1971 by Louis Leakey to support research activities in Tanjung Puting Wildlife Reserve. Louis Leakey was both teacher and mentor for three young primatologists who would go on to become well known in their field and beyond. Jane Goodall and Dian Fossey were two who went on to become known worldwide for their work with chimpanzees and gorillas respectively. The third, Birute Galdikas, went on to become the leading authority on orangutans and remains so to this day as president of the Orangutan Foundation International.

This afternoon we will visit the feeding station to see the rehabilitated orangutans and then we will travel back down the river to overnight at our riverside lodge.

This morning's sightseeing begins with the Sultan's palace, the Kraton, a vast complex of courtyards, halls and pavilions in Javanese traditional style. The most important structure is the Golden Pavillion; ornately carved, and heavily gilded, its graceful roof is supported by finely carved wooden beams. Here the Sultan used to receive royal guests and hold balls and banquets. We also visit the nearby Taman Sari (Water Castle), the ruins, pools, arches and underground passages of the former pleasure gardens. It was built in 1758 by Sultan Hamengkubuwono I, as a rest house and pleasure park for the Royal Family.

The temple is a UNESCO World Heritage Site and is one of the largest Hindu temples in Southeast Asia. It is characterized by its tall and pointed architecture, typical of Hindu temple architecture, and by the 47m (154 ft) high central building inside a large complex of individual temples. It was built around AD 850 by either Rakai Pikatan, king of the second Mataram dynasty, or Balitung Maha Sambu, during the Sanjaya Dynasty

We will also enjoy a Ramayana Ballet Performance with Prambanan temple as a background. It's a performance that combines drama and dance without dialogue, based on the epic Ramayana. The Ramayana epic tells the story of Rama Wijaya's journey to retrieve Dewi Shinta who was kidnapped by Rahwana, King of Alengka. The story ends with Ravana's death by Rama Wijaya's arrow and Rama Wijaya's reunion with his beloved wife, Dewi Shinta.

Day 18 Denpasar, Indonesia - Dili, Timor-Leste

Today transfer to the airport for our flight to Dili. Welcome to Timor-Leste! (East Timor)

East Timor, officially the Democratic Republic of Timor-Leste, is a country in Maritime Southeast Asia. It comprises the eastern half of the island of Timor, the nearby islands of Atauro and Jaco, and Oecusse, an exclave on the northwestern side of the island, within Indonesian West Timor. Timor-Leste was colonized by Portugal in the 16th century, and was known as Portuguese Timor until Portugal's decolonization of the country. In late 1975, Timor-Leste declared its independence, but later that year was invaded and occupied by Indonesia and declared Indonesia's 27th province the following year. In 1999, following the United Nations-sponsored act of self-determination, Indonesia relinquished control of the territory, and Timor-Leste became the first new sovereign state of the 21st century on May 20, 2002.

After a break to freshen up (and flight timing-permitting), we an introductory tour of Dili, Timor-Leste's largest town with only 150,000 people. This morning we depart Dili once again and follow the West Coast Road along the ocean to the town of Aipelu where we visit the crumbling ruins of the Ai Pelo Prison, which stare hauntingly out to sea on the windswept coast. This stone-walled and weather-beaten prison is a colonial stain on the landscape, a place built by the Portuguese to house dissidents and criminals, the dark memories of which are still fervently avoided by the locals today.

We continue to Liquiça, where most of the inhabitants speak Tocodede, a Malayo-Polynesian language spoken by only about 39,000 people. We pass some historic sites including the Liquiça Church, site of a notorious massacre during which most of the city's buildings were destroyed in the period before the 1999 independence referendum.
